Editorially Speaking

The philosopher hath said, "The simple things of life are best." I don't know what philosopher said it. It is not in Bartlett's but it is so obvious that somebody just had to say it sometime, somewhere in the last six thousand years. Or maybe before that.

Take air conditioning, or more properly speaking temperature control. The simplest is, of course, one's back yard after the sun has retired for the night. This costs nothing but the back yard footage, and in Kansas City most people get their back yard along with their house. The cool of the evening is air conditioning par excellence when it works. But it has one great draw-back. It is not subject to thermostatic control. It turns itself on and off with never a by your leave from the human recipients thereof.

Then there is the cave. A few hundred feet from the entrance and the temperature becomes constant and cool. The major objection here is that while most people get a back yard along with their house, the only thing they get that resembles a cave is a basement. But temperaturewise, any resemblance between a cave and a basement is purely coincidental. So with no cave and with no control over the back yard, man had to improvise.

He projected the closed coldspace of the electric ice box, porcelain enclosed, into the room where people were and developed electrical refrigeration of large enclosed spaces.

But first, there was the natural approach. Using the theory of evaporation to cool, long before the dawn of history there was the fan, hand operated, that moved the air from place to place and in moving it picked up water molecules and moved them, thereby lowering the humidity around the skin of the potentate, keeping him or her relatively cooler than the slaves that manned the fan. Small hand fans came in use and one of the symbols of the Gay Nineties was the palm leaf, light and helpful. The electric fan came into use shortly after.

Then came true air cooling. It was first used in places of amusement and in the thirties it was mandatory that the movie house be artificially cooled, otherwise folks stayed away in droves.

Further progress stopped during the war but soon we had the package coolers. The smallest, the window cooler, began to stick its rear out of windows in office, home and shop.

As we look back on this relatively simple machine and compare this relatively trouble free bit of apparatus with the monster we put into our house we groan with anguish. First there were two large condensors. One was defective and had to be replaced. This happened during the first year and the cost of this was on the house, but all during the first summer the contractor tried to fix it and we never knew from day to day whether the monster was going to work or sulk. Then one of the circulating water pumps went sour. This was on us.

The second summer we had a leak in the coils. This was on us to the tune of over one hundred dollars. Then came the third summer, and another leak. This time it couldn't be fixed so out came the condensor to go back to the factory. Also on us. Shortly thereafter the water system sprung a leak.

The whole apparatus is so complex that it takes a mechanic to change it from heating to cooling and back. Up to now we have spent enough on this behemoth to have bought a window cooler for every room in the house. Oh, for the good old days.

We were told that this type of equipment was the Cadillac of home air conditioning. What they didn't tell us was that if it broke down the repair bills each time would probably equal the down payment on a Cadillac. Yes, the simple things are best—back yard, cave, palm leaf and window cooler.

A Charter for Jackson County? Certainly.

Home rule for Jackson County will be approved or rejected by those who vote November 25th. The Charter Commission has completed its work. The proposed Charter for Jackson County will be submitted to the voters at the special Charter election on that date. It will modernize county government in Jackson County by establishing the Board of Supervisors to direct the functions of county government in place of many antiquated Missouri statutes and laws.

The supervisors will be elected at large and from designated sections of the county. Six sections have been outlined for one supervisor each. One will be elected from the east and one from the west section of the County. One, the Chairman, will be elected at large from the whole county. This nine member Board of Supervisors will be responsible for performance of the Charter provisions and the adoption of rules and regulations as are provided for in it, necessary to operate the County government.

The Charter does not contain all of the specific provisions that have been requested. It does provide for the Board of Supervisors to be responsible for adopting the feasible and necessary actions which will provide for equitable and efficient county government.

There are areas of disagreement about the proposed Charter. Any instrument of this nature can be amended. The federal and state constitutions and the Kansas City Charter have been amended. This Charter is a good start. Even if it is not perfect. Give it a chance to be amended and to establish home rule in Jackson County.

Vote on the Charter November 25th.

Diabetes Week—November 16-22

It is estimated that there are more than two million diabetics in the United States, and almost half of that number are unaware they have the ailment. In other words, one person in every 80 in this country is a diabetic. Approximately 4,750,000 other persons living today are potential diabetics, which means that they will develop the disease sometime during their lives. About 65,000 persons become diabetic each year.

The Diabetes Detection Drive during Diabetes Week, November 16-22, is conducted by the American Diabetes Association in cooperation with its 42 affiliate units throughout the United States and with more than 900 County and State Medical Societies. During Diabetes Week, detection tests are provided in hundreds of local communities. The goal is to find as many as possible of the approximately one million undetected diabetic men, women and children, and at the same time to educate the American public on the symptoms and the importance of early detection and control of the condition.

Wanted: Old Photos of Physicians Driving Ancient Cars

The Illinois State Medical Society is preparing an exhibit centered around an Illinois Medical Journal article which told of the role of physicians in the development of the automobile in the United States at the turn of the century.

To help illustrate this exhibit, the Society will appreciate the loan of old photographs showing physicians at the wheels of cars of 1900-1910 vintage. Scenes showing difficulties on the road, or poor highway conditions, are especially desired. Enlargements will be made of these photographs and the originals returned undamaged.

Photographs should be accompanied by a memo giving the name and town of the physician, whether living or deceased, and the make and year of the automobile. They should be sent to Mr. John A. Mirt, Illinois State Medical Society, 185 North Wabash Avenue, Chicago 1.

State Board of Medical Examiners

The Missouri State Board of Medical Examiners has scheduled an examination to be given in Kansas City on January 9-10, 1959. All applications are to be filed at least 30 days before the examination.

Arnold J. Arst, father of Herbert E. Arst, died October 22 in St. Joseph, Missouri. Our sympathy is extended to Dr. Arst and his family.

Claude J. Hunt attended the national meeting of the American Cancer Society at the Biltmore Hotel in New York.

A paper entitled "Construction and Care of Illiostomy and Colostomy" was presented to the Southern Medical Association in New Orleans on November 4 by Frederick B. Campbell. During his trip, Dr. Campbell visited Oaxaco, Mexico.

1. They consist of transient lapses of conciousness; they are brief, lasting only a few seconds and can occur many times daily.
   Yoss, R.E.: Proceedings of Staff Meetings of Mayo Clinic, 33, Oct. 1, 1958.
2. The need for cooperation between the public health physician and the private physician is especially evident in the field of old age and chronic illness.
   Underwood, B.: Journal of American Medical Association, 168, Oct. 25, 1958.
3. The Japanese smoke far more heavily than the Americans, but the incidence of lung cancer in Japan is very low. It is believed that automobile exhaust fume and industrial smoke cause more cancers in the United States than smoking.
